Item 4 – Services, Fees, and Compensation

Cambridge Investment Research Advisors, Inc. (also referred to as “CIRA”, us, we, our, “Investment Adviser”, and the “Firm” throughout this Disclosure Brochure) is a corporation formed under the laws of the State of Iowa. We are a Federally Registered Investment Adviser that is registered to conduct business in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. CIRA is majority owned and controlled by Cambridge Investment Group, Inc., which in turn is majority owned by the Schwartz Family Trust.

CIRA is the sponsor of WealthPort Wrap (“WealthPort”). Our services are provided to you through your relationship with individuals who are investment advisor representatives of CIRA or individuals and entities that are independently registered as investment advisors (collectively referred to herein as “Advisor Representatives”). We provide investment advisory services and arrange brokerage and custody services for an inclusive fee. To join WealthPort as a Client, you are required to execute the pertinent Client investment management agreement, which contains additional terms and conditions regarding WealthPort and your account, your relationship with us, and your relationship with your Advisor Representative.

We also offer other investment advisory services not discussed in this brochure. For information regarding these services, please refer to CIRA’s Form ADV, Part 2A on our website at www.CIR2.com.

You should be aware of the differences between the fee-based services outlined in this Brochure and commission-based services that are separately available for unmanaged brokerage accounts. We encourage you to review and discuss the document titled “Understanding the Differences Between Commissionable and Advisory Accounts” with your Advisor Representative. This document is on our website at www.CIR2.com.

A. Overview of our Advisory Services

WealthPort account recommendations are ultimately determined based upon your risk tolerance, financial situation, and stated investment objectives (i.e. preservation of capital, income, growth & income, growth and speculation, etc.). All information gathered from you is confidential in accordance with Cambridge’s Privacy Policy found on our website at www.cir2.com. Although we do not set a specific timeframe for review, we encourage our Advisor Representatives to contact you at least annually, or at your request, to discuss your investment portfolio and update your financial information if there are any changes. It is your responsibility to inform your Advisor Representative promptly with respect to any changes in your financial situation or investment goals and objectives. Failure to notify us of any such changes could result in investment recommendations not meeting your needs.

Accounts are cleared and custodied at Fidelity Clearing and Custody Solutions (FCCS) or Pershing, LLC (“Pershing”). The decision to use FCCS or Pershing is made in conjunction with your Advisor Representative. Generally, an Advisor Representative will use one of the custodians and not the other. However, depending on your needs, only one of the custodians may be a viable option. For example, one custodian may be recommended when you need an individual 401(k) account because that custodian offers active management of 401(k) accounts on a platform that is not currently available on the other custodian’s platform. Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. (“Cambridge”) serves as the introducing broker-dealer for accounts in WealthPort and clears securities transactions on a fully disclosed basis through FCCS and Pershing.

Accounts in WealthPort are managed on a discretionary trading basis. When utilizing discretionary trading authorization, your Advisor Representative and CIRA have authority to make changes to your account holdings (i.e. implement buy and sale transactions) without your approval prior to each transaction.

A description of each of the services in WealthPort is provided below.

1. Advisor-Directed

In the Advisor-Directed Program, your Advisor Representative provides investment management services, defined as giving continuous investment advice to you and making investments based on your individual needs. Through WealthPort, your Advisor Representative is responsible for determining investment recommendations and implementing transactions. Your Advisor Representative actively manages your account(s) in accordance with your individual needs, objectives and risk tolerance.

Models and strategies used by one Advisor Representative may be different than the strategies, models or philosophies of another Advisor Representative. You may receive advice on various types of securities including but not limited to: exchange-listed securities, securities traded over the counter, foreign issues, Exchange Traded Funds, warrants, corporate debt securities, commercial paper, certificates of deposit, mutual fund shares, municipal securities, United States government securities, alternative investments, and options contracts on securities.

Some Advisor Representatives develop models, strategies and philosophies that are generally applied across their client base, while other Advisor Representatives develop truly individualized portfolios for each client. In addition, not all Advisor Representatives utilize all of the services within WealthPort.

2. Branch-Directed

Branch-Directed services are designed for an Advisor Representative to affiliate with other Advisor Representatives who offer their portfolio asset allocation services. In this Program, Your Advisor Representative affiliates with another Advisor Representative, who provides portfolio asset allocation services and serves as the Branch-Directed Strategist, implementing transactions according to predetermined models. Your Advisor Representative continues to provide service through education, evaluation and management of the relationship.

You receive advice on various types of securities including but not limited to: exchange-listed securities, securities traded over the counter, foreign issues, Exchange Traded Funds, warrants, corporate debt securities, commercial paper, certificates of deposit, mutual fund shares, municipal securities, United States government securities, alternative investments, and options contracts on securities.

3. Cambridge Asset Allocation Platform (“CAAP®”)

CAAP® offers Clients and Advisor Representatives the ability to select one or more of the CAAP® strategies that are described below. Using your risk tolerance information, your Advisor Representative recommends a portfolio designed to meet your individual needs and investment objectives.

Portfolios are comprised of load-waived mutual funds, no-load mutual funds, sector funds, inverse index funds, leveraged index funds, stocks or exchange traded funds (“ETFs”) and are referred to collectively herein as either “Security” or “Securities.” The model asset allocation portfolios (referred to collectively as “CAAP®”) are selected through a comprehensive due diligence process by strategists who are selected by, but are not affiliated with Cambridge. Securities are selected by the strategists, who are registered investment advisers, using a screening process that looks at various investment criteria, including risk-adjusted performance, management continuity, portfolio composition, investment style, expense structure, turnover rate, asset growth rate, asset site, and various risk measurements. Depending upon the CAAP® strategy selected, you, together with your Advisor Representative, use a risk tolerance questionnaire to determine an asset allocation model that is consistent with your risk tolerance, investment objectives, financial resources, personal needs, and reasonable investment limitations. You and your Advisor Representative develop the investment policy statement (IPS) by selecting either a single strategist or multiple strategists from a group of asset allocation models.

CAAP® offers management strategies provided by Horizon Investments: Risk Assist®, Risk Mitigation, and Real Spend®. Risk Assist®, Risk Mitigation and Real Spend® offer no guarantees against market loss. They are strategies which seek to limit exposure and mitigate loss by changing investment components. There may be times when all investments and strategies are unfavorable and depreciate in value. The strategies will not prevent all losses, and accounts with Risk Assist®, Risk Mitigation or Real Spend® may not be fully invested in the underlying model, and during periods of strong market growth, may cause your account to underperform.

The Real Spend® retirement income strategy is an integrated asset allocation strategy that uses an investment model to:

- plan savings amounts and overall asset allocation during the distribution phase of retirement planning,
- compute target retirement wealth, assuming a retirement budget and a spending-investment strategy after retirement,
- compute the transition from the accumulation phase to the retirement phase, and
- generate the spending-investment strategy after retirement.

4. Unified Managed Account (UMA)

You may choose to utilize a Unified Managed Account (UMA). A UMA offers the ability to select multiple CAAP® strategies in one account. The UMA holds the investments recommended by each selected strategist in a separate sleeve of the account. Utilizing the proposal generation tools, your Advisor Representative customizes the asset allocation models for you or selects proposed asset allocations for types of investors fitting your profile and investment goals. Your Advisor Representative then further customizes the portfolio by selecting the specific, underlying investment strategies or investments in the portfolio to meet your needs. After your Advisor Representative establishes the content of the portfolio, we implement trade orders based on the recommendations of the selected strategists and/or your Advisor Representative.

Risk of Loss

Past performance is not indicative of future results. Therefore, you should never assume that the future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy will be profitable. Investing in any type of security (including stocks, mutual funds, and bonds) involves the risk of loss. Further, different types of investments have varying degrees of risk. You should be prepared to bear investment loss, including loss of original principal.

Because of the inherent risk of loss associated with investing, CIRA and Advisor Representatives cannot represent, guarantee, or even imply that our services and methods of analysis:

- can or will predict future results; or
- successfully identify market tops or bottoms; or
- insulate you from losses due to market corrections or declines.

There are certain additional risks that should be considered when investing in securities through an investment management program including, but not limited to:

- Market Risk - Either the stock market as a whole, or the value of an individual company, goes down, resulting in a decrease in the value of client investments. This is also referred to as systematic risk.
- Equity (Stock) Market Risk - Common stocks are susceptible to general stock market fluctuations and to volatile increases and decreases in value as market confidence in and perceptions of their issuers change. Common stock, or common stock equivalents of any given issuer, generally expose clients to greater risk than if they invest in preferred stocks and debt obligations of the issuer.
- Company Risk - When investing in stock positions, there is always a certain level of company industry specific risk that is inherent in each investment. This is also referred to as unsystematic risk and can be reduced through appropriate diversification. There is the risk that the company will perform poorly or have its value reduced based on factors specific to the company or its industry. For example, if a company's employees go on strike or the company receives unfavorable media attention for its actions, the value of the company may be reduced.
- Options Risk - Options on securities are subject to greater fluctuations in value than an investment in the underlying securities. Purchasing and writing put and call options are highly specialized activities and entail greater than ordinary investment risks.
- Fixed Income Risk - When investing in bonds, there is the risk that the issuer will default on the bond and be unable to make payments. Further, individuals who depend on set amounts of periodic income payments face the risk that inflation will erode their spending power.

- ETF and Mutual Fund Risk - When investing in an Exchange Traded Fund (“ETF”) or mutual fund, there are additional expenses based on the Client’s pro rata share of the ETF or mutual fund’s operating expenses, including the potential duplication of management fees. The risk of owning an ETF or mutual fund generally reflects the risks of owning the underlying securities the ETF or mutual fund holds. Clients will also incur brokerage costs when purchasing ETFs. Leveraged and inverse ETFs may not be suitable for all investors due to their unique characteristics and risks. Although there are limited occasions when a leveraged or inverse ETF may be useful for some types of investors, it is extremely important to understand that for holding periods that are longer than a day, these funds may not give the Client the returns they are expecting.
- Management (Advisory) Risk - The value of the Client’s investment varies with the success and failure of CIRA’s or Advisor Representatives’ investment strategies, research, analysis and determination of portfolio securities. If CIRA’s or Advisor Representatives’ investment strategies do not produce the expected returns, the value of the investment may decrease.

B. Program Fees

Fees for participating in WealthPort (“Account Fees”) are billed as an inclusive fee (otherwise known as a wrap fee) by CIRA on behalf of the various parties providing services under the WealthPort. The Account Fee is an annual fee and is comprised of the WealthPort Program Fee, Advisor Representative Fee, Strategist Fees (when applicable), and Setup Fee (when applicable).

Account Fee = WealthPort Program Fee (includes custody and trading) + Advisor Representative Fee + Strategist Fee (when applicable) + Setup Fee (when applicable).

The Account Fee is based on the amount assets under management in the account. For the Advisor-Directed and Branch-Directed Programs, the Account Fee may be charged in advance or in arrears depending upon the agreement between you and your Advisor Representative. For CAAP® and UMA accounts, the account fee is charged in advance pursuant to the investment strategist’s fee schedule. Some portions of the Account Fee are negotiable and subject to discounts on an Advisor Representative-by-Advisor Representative, Client-by-Client, or account-by-account basis. These discounts may be a consideration for your Advisor Representative when recommending a platform. Your Advisor Representative determines the fee to charge based on factors such as total amount of assets involved in the relationship, the complexity of the services, and the number and range of supplementary advisory and client-related services. You should consider the level and complexity of the consulting and/or advisory services to be provided when negotiating the fee with your Advisor Representative. The exact fee, frequency of fees, and payment arrangement are agreed to by you and your Advisor Representative through the WealthPort documents. You should discuss the current fee calculation formula with him/her.

We reserve the right to calculate fees either on the basis of the market value of the account(s) on the last day of the previous quarter if fees are billed in advance or on the last day of the quarter in which services were rendered if fees are billed in arrears.

Additional deposits of funds may be subject to a fee when deposited on a date other than the last day in a reporting period. The fee for additional deposits may be prorated for the remainder of the reporting period. This fee is determined on an Advisor Representative-by-Advisor Representative or account-by-account basis. Therefore, you should discuss this with your Advisor Representative.

Fees are typically deducted directly from your account. In some cases, you may also have the option of deducting fees from an alternate Cambridge or CIRA account. To arrange this, you must provide the custodian with written authorization to have fees deducted from your account and paid to us through the proper WealthPort Agreement. The custodian sends statements, at least quarterly, showing all disbursements for the account including the amount of the Account Fee, if deducted directly from the account. We share the responsibility with you for verifying the accuracy of fee calculations, as the custodian will not determine whether the fee has been properly calculated. You may pay fees via direct invoice upon our approval. If you pay via invoice, fees are due upon receipt of the invoice.

WealthPort may cost more or less than purchasing the same funds and investment advisory services individually. Factors that bear upon the cost of a WealthPort account in relation to the cost of the same securities and investment advisory services purchased individually include:

- the type and size of the account,
- the historical and/or expected size or number of trades for the account, and
- the number and range of supplementary advisory services provided to the account.

In some cases, your Advisor Representative may receive more compensation through the WealthPort than he/she would receive if you participated in other programs or paid separately for investment advice, brokerage, and other services. He/she may therefore have a financial incentive to recommend WealthPort over other programs or services.

We have the availability to utilize mutual funds that offer various share classes, including shares designated as Class A Shares and Class I Shares. Generally, I shares are reserved for institutional investors and therefore may not always be available for your account. As a result of the different expenses of the mutual fund share classes, it is generally more expensive for you to own Class A Shares than Class I Shares.

The account fee does not include the expenses of the individual mutual funds. Each of the mutual funds and ETFs bears its own operating expenses, including compensation to the fund or sub-account advisor. By investing in mutual funds or ETFs, you indirectly bear the operating expenses of the mutual funds or ETFs because these expenses will affect the net asset value of each mutual fund (or share price of an ETF). Fund expenses vary from fund to fund according to the actual amounts of expenses incurred and fluctuations in the fund's daily net assets. Further information regarding charges and fees assessed by a mutual fund are available in the mutual fund prospectus and statement of additional information, which you should read carefully.

We participate in Pershing's FUNDVEST® ticket charge program, and FCCS' FUNDSMART® Select ticket charge program. These programs offer clients no-load (no commission or sales charge) mutual funds with no transaction fees. Through formal agreements, we are eligible to receive revenue sharing participation for assets that are held within these programs. Restrictions may apply in certain situations. Both Pershing's FUNDVEST® and FCCS' FUNDSMART® can be used in the Program.

CAAP Small Account Solutions

The WealthPort Program fee for the Small Account Strategies is 0.50% with no minimum program fee.

The CAAP® UMA Program Fee is calculated based off the total account value and is subject to an annual minimum account fee of $250 per account.

2. Advisor Representative Fee

This Advisor Representative Fee is the amount charged by your Advisor Representative for providing you with investment advisory and related services under WealthPort and is evidenced in the WealthPort Client Agreement.

Maximum Advisor Fee

Advisor-Directed	2.25%
Branch-Directed	2.25%
CAAP® Strategist	2.15%

3. Branch-Directed Strategist Fee

Branch Directed services are designed for an Advisor Representative to affiliate with other Advisor Representatives who offer their portfolio asset allocation services. In this situation, your Advisor Representative manages the relationship, but another Advisor Representative provides portfolio asset allocation services and acts as the Strategist, implementing transactions according to predetermined models.

Branch Directed Strategist Fees are determined on a Branch Directed Strategist-by-Branch Directed Strategist basis. The Branch Directed Strategist Fee specific to your account is evidenced in the WealthPort Agreement. You should discuss if or when this fee may apply to your accounts with your Advisor Representative.

4. CAAP® Single Strategist Fee

CAAP® account fees are billed or debited on a monthly or quarterly reporting period in advance pursuant to each investment strategist's fee schedule. If a CAAP® or UMA account is established on a date other than the last day of a calendar month or quarter, the initial Account Fee is prorated for the remainder of the reporting period. We debit the prorated fee for the initial account billing on or around the 20th of the month if the account is open and trading on or before the 15th of the month. Accounts that are open and trading after the 15th of the month are debited on or around the 7th of the following month for the initial Account Fee. Subsequent Account Fee payments are due and debited at the beginning of each reporting period.

The Account Fee is calculated on the value of the account assets under management as of the close of business on the last business day of the preceding reporting period as valued by an independent pricing service, where available, or otherwise in good faith as reflected on your custodial account statement. We may, in our sole discretion, change the Account Fee calculation method by giving written notice to you 30 days prior to the first reporting period in which the new calculation will be applied. Any other applicable charges are automatically debited from one or more CAAP® account(s) when they are incurred. The account fee is debited first from free credit balances, if any. If there is no free credit balance in any CAAP® account, we redeem money market fund shares to cover the account fees and any other charges. You are notified to deposit additional funds to replenish the money market balance, as needed. At any time, we reserve the right to liquidate a portion or all of the other assets in any CAAP® account to cover account fees and other charges. Liquidation(s) may have tax consequences and may reduce the account below the applicable minimum balance, thereby incurring additional charges.

Additional deposits of funds may be subject to an interim debit fee when deposited in between billing periods. The same prorated calculation method is applied. This fee is determined on an Advisor Representative-by-Advisor Representative or account-by-account basis. You should discuss if or when this fee may apply to your accounts with your Advisor Representative.

5. Setup Fee

If we (CIRA and/or Advisor Representative) are providing you with supplementary or other client-related services when you are opening your WealthPort account, we (CIRA and/or Advisor Representative) may charge you a one-time non-refundable setup fee of the lesser of 1% of the account value or $1,000 (see the WealthPort Agreement for the actual charge on each account). The combined setup fee and account fee may not exceed three percent (3%) of assets under management in any year. Increases in the account values due to appreciation, dividends, or interest on funds under management are not subject to the setup fee.

Excluded Assets

An Advisor Representative may request, on your behalf, authorization to hold an asset that is not part of the WealthPort model. A waiver to hold an excluded asset is considered on a limited and individual basis if your intention is to hold the asset long-term. Upon receiving authorization from us, you will sign the Excluded Assets form. It is important to note that we do not monitor, provide investment recommendations, exercise discretionary authority, or otherwise manage the excluded assets unless we agree to it on an exception basis and we authorize it in writing.

Cash being held as an excluded asset may be invested into a money market fund that we select and may not be an FDIC-Insured Cash Sweep Vehicle. The excluded asset is protected from liquidation using a symbol or CUSIP driven trade restriction. Corporate action and reorganization activity may result in a change to the symbol or CUSIP. Since we do not monitor excluded assets, you or your Advisor Representative are responsible for giving us the information to update the Waiver for Excluded Assets form to ensure the new symbol or CUSIP is properly restricted prior to the effective date of the corporate action. Failure to do so may result in the position being liquidated upon discovery or during the course of normal trading events.

New purchases and additional buys of an excluded asset are generally prohibited. We do not include the excluded assets as part of the account fees charged for the WealthPort account. Excluded assets may be subject to fees and charges other than the account fees, based on the terms in the WealthPort Agreement.

General Disclosure Regarding ERISA and Qualified Accounts

The following disclosure is for Clients that are:

- a pension or other qualified employee benefit plan (including a 401(k) plan) governed by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended (“ERISA”);
- a tax-qualified retirement plan under section 401(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the “Code”), and not covered by ERISA; or
- an Individual Retirement Account (“IRA”) under Section 408 of the Code.

It is your responsibility to give your Advisor Representative complete copies of all documents that establish and govern the plan and evidence your authority to retain us (CIRA) as an Investment Adviser. In addition, you must promptly provide copies of any amendments to the plan. If any amendment affects our rights or obligations, the amendment is binding only when agreed to in writing by us (CIRA and your Advisor Representative).

You must maintain appropriate ERISA bonding coverage for your account(s) and include us (CIRA and your Advisor Representative), and our personnel in the bond coverage, as required by law.

When managing ERISA and qualified accounts, 12b-1 (marketing and distribution) fees and trail earned will be credited to your account at the clearing firm whenever possible. When 12b-1 fees and trails are received by your Advisor Representative in his/her capacity as Registered Representative of Cambridge, the investment advisory fee will be lowered, or offset by that amount. Your Advisor Representative is required to provide a 408(b)(2) disclosure for all group retirement plans governed by ERISA, excluding owner-only retirement plans. The 408(b)(2) disclosure outlines the services provided by your Advisor Representative, fiduciary status, any direct or indirect compensation that is received by the Firm, and manner of compensation receipt. An updated fee disclosure is provided in the event of a change to the advisory fees received or services provided to the plan.

Termination

Please keep in mind that we have the right to refuse any Agreement submitted for approval. If the appropriate disclosure statement (i.e., this document or a separate written disclosure statement containing the same information as this document) is not delivered to you at least 48 hours prior to or at the time you are entering into a WealthPort Agreement, then you have the right to terminate services without penalty (i.e., full refund of all fees paid in advance or, in the event fees are billed in arrears, no fees shall be due) within five (5) business days after entering into the Agreement. For purposes of this provision, an Agreement is considered entered into when all parties have executed the Agreement.

All services continue in effect until terminated by either party (i.e., you, your Advisor Representative, or CIRA) by giving written notice to the other party of at least 30 days. Unless all parties mutually agree on an earlier termination date, any prepaid, unearned fees are promptly refunded to you. If termination of the WealthPort Agreement occurs after five days from account opening, we may retain up to $500 of the prepaid Account Fee for the current quarter. Fee refunds will be determined on a pro rata basis using the number of days services are actually provided during the final period.

Upon termination of the Agreement, your account converts to a brokerage account and transactions in the converted account are processed at normal brokerage rates. Termination of the Agreement does not affect the liabilities or obligations of the parties from transactions initiated prior to termination.

Upon actual receipt of notice of termination, our obligation to actively manage or advise you with respect to the account immediately terminates. This means that unless we receive instructions from you, we will not buy, sell, reallocate, or rebalance Funds in the converted account. IRA and 403(b) (7) accounts remain subject to the provisions and restrictions of regulations, law, and the custodial Agreement.

Item 5 – Account Requirements and Types of Clients

We generally provide investment advice to the following types of clients:

- Individuals
- High-net worth Individuals
- Banking or thrift institutions
- State or municipal government entities
- Pension and profit sharing plans
- Trusts, estates, or charitable organizations
- Corporations or business entities other than those listed above

Minimum Account Requirement

A minimum initial investment of at least $5,000 is required to participate in WealthPort. Depending on whether you are utilizing Advisor-Directed, Branch-Directed, CAAP® Strategists or UMA, higher minimums may apply. Your Advisor Representative can discuss the specific minimums that apply to your selection.

Subject to reasonable parameters, you may impose restrictions on the purchase of certain securities for your account. All requests for investment restrictions must be in writing. All investment restrictions are on a best efforts basis.

Funding your CAAP® Account

You are required to deposit at least 90% of the required portfolio minimum amount referenced in the Investment Policy Statement (IPS) for your CAAP® account(s) to be eligible for trading. For UMA accounts, you are required to deposit at least 90% of the required minimum amount referenced in your IPS, in addition to meeting all sleeve model minimums to be eligible for trading.

Until the account reaches at least 90% of the required portfolio minimum, the funds are held in a money market and securities are held in kind. Accounts that receive less than 90% funding, but have received all anticipated funding and meet the account minimum for your selected model may be invested by contacting your Advisor Representative.

CAAP® accounts that are funded by an in-kind transfer will have assets liquidated, and ticket charges associated with the liquidation of those assets are charged to your Advisor Representative. UMA accounts that are funded by an in-kind transfer will also have assets liquidated, but WealthPort absorbs the ticket charges for the liquidation of non-model securities within UMA.

Your Advisor Representative is also authorized by you to provide us with trade instructions. Trade instructions may include, but are not limited to, liquidation of excluded assets, tax lot harvesting instructions and requests to liquidate assets to raise cash for distributions or cash withdrawals.

We rebalance your account upon suggested changes from the strategists and we also review your account against its assigned model(s) to determine if your account is significantly out of balance. Significantly out of balance is defined by a variance range of +/- 20% on asset allocations of 10% or less and variance range of +/- 15% on asset allocations of greater than 10%. A minimum trade size may be applied to all buys and sells. Due to this variance range, your account may not be allocated 100% to the prescribed strategy. The strategy allocation may change over time based on recommendations of the strategists.

Your Advisor Representative should notify us whenever additional cash contributions are deposited to your CAAP® account. In certain cases, because of the required model cash target, no trades may be processed. Your Advisor Representative may request a rebalance of your account.

CAAP® Strategist accounts may be subject to short-term redemption fees from the mutual fund companies upon sale of assets. For non-qualified account registrations, this action may be a taxable event. We recommend that you consult with your tax professional for further guidance.

In regards to all cash withdrawal requests, if the cash for the withdrawal has not been delivered out of the Client account 60 days after receiving a partial redemption/withdrawal request, funds may be reinvested back into the model at the current market. Dividends and capital gains are reinvested on the reinvestment date as established by the mutual fund company. Dividends and capital gains are reinvested in all portfolios except the Rogerscasey and Greenrock portfolios where dividends and capital gains remain in cash. Dividends for ETFs are paid to cash. Excess cash is invested during a rebalance event or upon discovery of a high cash condition.

Item 6 – Portfolio Manager Selection and Evaluation

For CAAP® accounts in which we act as the Portfolio Manager, our Investment Committee enters into relationships with select third party portfolio strategists to solicit recommendations for the various CAAP® strategies. The Investment Committee is responsible for oversight of the investment selection process, and for reviewing and approving all products to be offered in CAAP®.

Based on the Investment Committee's decision on Model Changes recommended by the Investment Strategist, we process the trades for those changes.

In the Advisor-Directed program, your Advisor Representative serves as your Portfolio Manager. He/she completes the review, analysis and model creation. You should ask your Advisor Representative about their process for creating these models.

In the Branch-Directed program, your Advisor Representative affiliates with another Advisor Representative who provides portfolio asset allocation services and serves as the Strategist, implementing transactions according to predetermined models. Your Advisor Representative serves as a Relationship Manager and continues to provide service through education, evaluation and management of the relationship.

Combinations of various styles and asset classes may be used to create an asset allocation portfolio designed to manage risk through diversification. The allocation of different asset classes and management styles is believed to reduce risk as compared to a portfolio composed of investments concentrated into a similar or identical asset class.

Described below are several examples of asset classes and/or management styles that may be used by the various strategists and/or your Advisor Representative. This is not an exhaustive list of asset classes and management styles.

Types of Investment Styles and Strategies

Long term purchases - Investments held at least a year

Short term purchases - Investments sold within a year

Short sales - A short sale is generally the sale of a stock not owned by the investor. Investors who sell short believe the price of the stock will fall. If the price drops, the investor can buy the stock at the lower price and make a profit. If the price of the stock rises and the investor buys it back later at the higher price, the investor will incur a loss. Short sales require a margin account.

Margin transactions - When an investor buys a stock on margin, the investor pays for part of the purchase and borrows the rest from a brokerage firm. For example, an investor may buy $5,000 worth of stock in a margin account by paying for $2,500 and borrowing $2,500 from a brokerage firm.

Option writing including covered options, uncovered options, or spreading strategies - Options are contracts giving the purchaser the right to buy or sell a security, such as stocks, at a fixed price within a specific period of time.

Growth style - This management style focuses on purchasing the stock of companies that have excellent financial characteristics such as above-average sales growth, profit growth, dividend growth, profit margins, and return on capital. In general, a portfolio manager following a growth approach to managing is willing to pay a higher than average valuation for this type of stock. A more conservative growth manager may choose to focus on high quality growth companies that are available at reasonable valuations determined by various pricing models.

Value style - This management style focuses on purchasing the stock of companies that generally have less attractive measures of financial performance than growth companies, but can be purchased at very attractive prices. In other words, a lower quality stock is acceptable as long as the price is sufficiently attractive. A portfolio manager following a value approach to managing assets may choose to invest in the stock of companies that he/she feels are selling at a sizeable discount from "private market value" – a price an acquirer might be willing to pay for the entire company. Value managers are also attracted to sound companies whose stock prices are depressed by temporary business problems or investor misperceptions.

Fixed income style - This management style focuses on purchasing different types of bonds. In particular, a portfolio manager following a fixed income approach to managing assets invests in high quality bonds, lower quality high yielding bonds, or international bonds, depending on the specific objectives for the account.

Asset allocation style – This management style strives to construct portfolios which provide a certain lower level of overall risk (or fluctuation in principal) than would otherwise have been achieved through a less diversified approach. To achieve this objective, the portfolio manager may combine asset classes whose returns do not move in perfect tandem; in other words, their returns are not closely correlated.

Asset Classes

Large-cap equities - These are stocks of U.S. companies with market capitalization that is generally greater than the mean capitalization of stocks on U.S. exchanges. Stocks in this category, since they are from larger companies, are more easily traded, more widely held, and more broadly followed by investment analysts. Risk levels vary widely among these stocks.

Small-cap equities - These are stocks of U.S. companies with market capitalization that is generally less than the mean capitalization of stocks on U.S. exchanges. Since they are stocks of smaller companies, growth rates and risk tend to be higher, while information on the stocks and ready liquidity tends to be less available.

Investment grade fixed income - This investment class is comprised of U.S. “investment grade” bonds and other fixed income instruments. Investment grade fixed income investments generally have been rated for credit quality and are used by fixed income investors who are risk averse.

High yield fixed income - U.S. high yield corporate bonds, also known as “junk” bonds, are fixed income investments with low or no credit rating and generally higher risk of default than investment grade bonds. Correspondingly, these investments pay significantly higher coupon and yield rates.

International equities - These are stocks of companies that derive most of their sales from outside the U.S. These investments can carry broadly varied risk, and potential return can vary as well. This investment class is used to diversify the equity exposure in a portfolio, such that all stock exposure is not dependent only on U.S. economic and market conditions.

Real estate investment trusts - This investment class represents ownership in real estate or real estate loans in either commercial or residential real estate properties.

Cash equivalents - This asset class is substantially equal to cash and as such carries low interest rates and little or no risk of loss in value. Money market mutual funds are the most common form of this asset class. Some portfolios may move 100% of the assets in the portfolio to money market funds to preserve capital.

Methods of Analysis

Dynamic asset allocation using technical analysis — A method of evaluating securities by relying on the assumption that market data such as charts and statistics of price, volume, and open interest can help predict future (usually short-term) market trends. Unlike fundamental analysis, the intrinsic value of the security is not considered.

Strategic asset allocation – A method that calls for setting target allocations and then periodically rebalancing the portfolio back to those targets as investment returns skew the original asset allocation percentages. The concept is akin to a “buy and hold” strategy, rather than an active trading approach. The strategic asset allocation targets may change over time as the client’s goals and needs change and as the time horizon for major events such as retirement and college funding grow shorter.

Tactical analysis strategies using fundamental analysis — A method of security valuation that involves examining the company's financials and operations, especially sales, earnings, growth potential, assets, debt, management, products, and competition. This method of valuation can also be applied to sectors and asset classes.

Sector rotation strategies using business cycle analysis — This strategy assumes that changes in the broad economy will have significant, yet different, effects on stocks, sectors, and asset classes. By following economic cycles, one chooses specific securities that may have strength in the given or forecasted climate. The various anticipated stages of expansion and contraction coupled with historical results of securities within these stages determines allocations.

Market timing strategy - While uncommon and typically not recommended to clients, some Advisor Representatives may provide a market timing service as or part of an investment strategy. In general, market timing is a strategy where the Advisor Representative will try to identify the best times to be in the market and when to get out. This service is designed to take advantage of stock market fluctuations by being invested based on the anticipated market direction. Clients should be aware that this strategy is considered an aggressive, higher-risk investment strategy. Only clients that are looking for a speculative investment strategy should participate in an investment timing service offered by an Advisor Representative.

Modern Portfolio Theory – A theory that proposes that by combining diversified asset classes in a portfolio, investment return is maximized while risk is minimized. It asserts that even though each asset class by itself may be volatile, the volatility of the entire portfolio can be low.

Item 7 – Client Information Provided to Portfolio Managers

You provide information through the WealthPort documents that are utilized for opening an account. The information collected helps your Advisor Representative understand your goals, objectives and financial situation so that he or she can make recommendations to assist in meeting your financial goals.

Item 8 – Client Contact with Portfolio Managers

In general, it is best to contact your Advisor Representative for questions, concerns, to update personal information, or obtain account information.

Item 9 – Additional Information

A. Disciplinary Information

CIRA reported to the Pennsylvania Securities Commission, upon CIRA's own discovery, that it had previously misinterpreted the Pennsylvania Investment Advisor Representative Registration provision. Upon CIRA's recognition of the registration issue, CIRA took prompt action and worked with the state of Pennsylvania Securities Commission to resolve the issue. CIRA was assessed a fine and legal fees which it paid in full on September 29, 2010.

In August of 2011 CIRA self-reported the misappropriation of financial planning fees by a former IAR. In good faith CIRA returned these misappropriated funds to the affected Clients. As a result the SEC determined that CIRA failed to reasonably supervise the former IAR's financial planning activity and options trading, and to adopt and implement written policies and procedures reasonably designed to prevent violations of the Advisers Act. Therefore, without admitting or denying these allegations, CIRA has agreed to a monetary penalty of $225,000 and the continued retention of a previously hired Compliance Consultant, for a timeframe of nine months, to assist in the continued review and implementation of enhanced procedures and policies designed to prevent violations of the Advisers Act (2016). Additional information can be found by visiting the SEC's Investment Advisor Public Disclosure site found here (<http://www.adviserinfo.sec.gov/IAPD/Default.aspx>) and completing the requested information.

B. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

CIRA is not and does not have a related company that is an (1) investment company or other pooled investment vehicle (including a mutual fund, closed-end investment company, unit investment trust, private investment company or “hedge fund,” or offshore fund), (2) futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, or commodity trading advisor, (3) banking or thrift institution, or (4) sponsor or syndicator of limited partnerships.

Affiliation with Cambridge Investment Research, Inc.

CIRA is under common ownership with a registered broker-dealer, Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. (“Cambridge”). CIRA and Cambridge are owned by Cambridge Investment Group, Inc., a holding company that is majority owned by the Schwartz Family Trust.

Advisor Representatives may be licensed to sell securities in their capacity as Registered Representatives with Cambridge. Advisor Representatives, acting in their separate capacities as Registered Representatives of Cambridge, may sell, for commissions, general securities products such as stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, and variable annuity and variable life products to advisory clients. As such, Advisor Representatives may suggest that advisory Clients implement investment advice by purchasing securities products through a commission-based Cambridge account in addition to an advisory account. In the event investment advisory Clients elect to purchase these products through Cambridge, Cambridge and the Client’s Advisor Representative, in the capacity as Cambridge Registered Representative, will receive the normal and customary commission compensation in connection with the specific product purchased. CIRA does not require its Advisor Representatives to encourage Clients to implement investment advice through Cambridge. Clients of CIRA are free to implement investment advice through any broker-dealer or product sponsor they may select. However, Clients should understand that, due to certain regulatory constraints, Advisor Representatives, in the capacity as a dually Registered Representative, must place all purchases and sales of securities products in commission-based brokerage accounts through Cambridge or other Cambridge approved institutions.

Affiliation with TBS Agency, Inc.

CIRA is under common ownership with TBS Agency, Inc. (TBS), a licensed insurance agency. CIRA and TBS are owned by Cambridge Investment Group, Inc., a holding company that is majority owned by the Schwartz Family Trust.

Advisor Representatives may be licensed life insurance agents affiliated with TBS and may sell insurance products to advisory clients. Therefore, the Client’s Advisor Representative, in the capacity as a licensed life agent, may be able to implement insurance recommendations for advisory Clients electing to receive this service. In this event, Advisor Representatives, in their separate capacities as licensed insurance agents, will receive separate and typical commission compensation for insurance and/or annuity sales.

Affiliation with Continuity Partners Group, L.L.C.

CIRA is affiliated with Continuity Partners Group, L.L.C (referred to as “CPG”). CPG is registered as a Registered Investment Adviser firm with the SEC and a registered broker/dealer with FINRA. CPG has been established by Cambridge Investment Group, Inc. (“CIG”), the parent company of CIRA and Cambridge, and certain principals of CIG, Cambridge and CIRA primarily to provide to certain Cambridge Registered Representatives and outside firms who are members of CPG with tools to enhance the value of their retail practices and to provide a source to finance the transitioning of their practices and/or purchase of existing practices.

Although CPG has registered as an Investment Adviser, CPG does not provide advisory services. CPG has registered as an Investment Adviser solely because it acquires the goodwill associated with the Client relationships served by CIRA and Advisor Representatives participating in CPG. Correspondingly, CPG will receive a portion of advisory fees generated from such investment advisory Client relationships. Advisory fees will be paid by CIRA directly to CPG. It should be noted that CPG does not provide investment advisory services. CIRA Clients will not enter into a direct Client relationship with CPG.

Advisor Representatives Affiliated with Independent Investment Adviser Firms

Some Advisor Representatives own or are affiliated with independent investment advisory firms. CIRA and the independent Investment Advisers are not affiliated companies. Typically, Advisor Representatives that own or are affiliated with an independent Investment Adviser may only provide financial planning services through the independent Investment Adviser firm. However, some Advisor Representatives may provide asset management and similar services through the independent Investment Adviser. Fees for financial planning services provided by an independent Investment Adviser are separate and distinct from the advisory fees paid to these Advisor Representatives in their capacities as Advisor Representatives.

Clients that engage an independent Investment Adviser will receive a copy of the independent Investment Adviser firm's disclosure document and will execute a client Agreement specifying the services provided and fees charged by the independent Investment Adviser.

Advisor Representatives' Other Business Activities – Accountants

While CIRA does not have a related person that is an accounting firm, certain Advisor Representatives may be accountants or Certified Public Accountants ("CPAs"). When Advisor Representatives that are accountants determine that their Clients are in need of tax or accounting services, those Clients may be referred to the Advisor Representative's accounting firm or practice. In addition, if accounting or tax Clients of an Advisor Representative are in need of financial planning or other advisory services, the CIRA Advisor Representative acting in his or her separate capacity as an accountant may refer Clients to CIRA. Clients are not obligated in any manner to use the services or an accounting firm recommended by an Advisor Representative.

Advisor Representatives' Other Business Activities – Attorneys

While CIRA does not have a related person that is a law firm, certain Advisor Representatives may be attorneys. When Advisor Representatives that are attorneys determine that their Clients are in need of legal services, those Clients may be referred to the Advisor Representative's law firm or practice. In addition, if legal Clients of an Advisor Representative are in need of financial planning or other advisory services, the Advisor Representative acting in his or her separate capacity as an attorney may refer Clients to CIRA. Clients are not obligated in any manner to use the services or a law firm recommended by an Advisor Representative.

Advisor Representatives' Other Business Activities – Pension Consultants

Certain Advisor Representatives may be pension consultants and provide pension consulting services separate from their capacity with CIRA. When Advisor Representatives that provide pension consulting services determine that their Clients are in need of such services, those Clients may be referred to the Advisor Representative's pension consulting firm. In addition, if pension consulting Clients of an Advisor Representative are in need of financial planning or other advisory services, the Advisor Representative acting in his or her separate capacity as a pension consultant may refer Clients to CIRA. Clients are not obligated in any manner to use the services of a pension consulting firm recommended by an Advisor Representative.

Advisor Representatives' Other Business Activities – Real Estate and Mortgage

CIRA does not have a related person that is a real estate broker or dealer; however, Advisor Representatives may be real estate agents or mortgage loan originators. In this separate capacity, the Advisor Representative that is a licensed real estate broker will earn commissions for real estate transactions. Advisor Representatives that are mortgage brokers will earn commissions when selling or refinancing real estate loans.

To the extent that an advisory Client may use a portion of their proceeds from a loan on the Client's real estate or from the sale of their real estate, brokered by an Advisor Representative, to fund their securities account(s), a potential conflict of interest exists. The conflict is present in that the Advisor Representative has an incentive to recommend the proceeds be placed in a securities account managed by the Advisor Representative or used to purchase securities products through the Advisor Representative in his/her capacity as a Cambridge Registered Representative, thus increasing the compensation earned by the Advisor Representative.

Clients of CIRA are not obligated in any manner to use the mortgage or real estate services provided by Advisor Representatives.

Advisor Representatives' Other Business Activities – Insurance Agencies

Advisor Representatives may be licensed life insurance agents with various insurance companies and may sell insurance products to CIRA's advisory Clients. Therefore, the Client's Advisor Representative, in the capacity as a licensed life agent, may be able to implement insurance recommendations for advisory Clients electing to receive this service. In this event, Advisor Representatives, in their separate capacities as licensed insurance agents, will receive separate and typical commission compensation for insurance and/or annuity sales. There may be a conflict of interest present in that the Advisor Representative has an incentive to recommend products to be purchased through the Advisor Representative, thus increasing the compensation earned by the Advisor Representative. Clients of CIRA are not obligated in any manner to use the insurance services provided by Advisor Representatives.

Advisor Representatives' Other Business Activities – Banking or Thrift Institutions

Cambridge has established and will continue to establish marketing arrangements with banks and other depository institutions. In certain circumstances, investment advisory services of CIRA may also be marketed through these banks and other depository institutions, provided that such marketing is done in compliance with applicable SEC and state regulations. Further, CIRA may have Advisor Representatives conducting business from and/or affiliated with a bank or other depository institution. These relationships may create compliance issues relative to consumer protection.

Arrangements with Unaffiliated Investment Advisers

CIRA has developed several strategies in conjunction with unaffiliated Registered Investment Advisors. The outside Investment Adviser will be paid a portion of the fees charged to the Client. The selected unaffiliated Investment Advisers will act as third party strategists and assist CIRA in the development of model portfolios and asset class allocation, evaluate opportunities and risk, and recommend asset class shifts and money manager changes.

Whenever another Investment Adviser assists with the Client's assets, the outside Investment Adviser and CIRA and its Advisor Representatives will receive a portion of the fees the Client is charged.

General Disclosure

Some Advisor Representatives have entered into an Equity Participation Plan ("EPP") with Cambridge. The EPP Program is a stock appreciation rights program. Once a participant's EPP's units are vested and the years of service requirement is met the participant has a right to the appreciation in value of the same number of shares of Cambridge Investment Group Stock as he/she holds in vested EPP's Units.

Advisor Representatives are not owners or officers of Cambridge. However, Advisor Representatives are eligible to participate in the EPP due to their affiliation as Registered Representatives of Cambridge or Advisor Representatives of an RIA. This arrangement between these particular Advisor Representative and the Firm is a potential conflict of interest with our Clients in that it may inhibit our independent judgment concerning the best execution services offered by the Firm and our clearing broker-dealers.

Some Advisor Representatives are eligible to participate in the Cambridge Investment Group, Inc. private stock purchase program. Cambridge Investment Group, Inc. is 100% owner of CIRA and its affiliated broker-dealer Cambridge Investment Research, Inc. Advisor Representatives who participate in this program do not act as officers of Cambridge. However, they have a percentage of ownership and the ability to participate in Cambridge's overall profits. Advisor Representatives are eligible to participate in the stock purchase program due to their affiliation as Registered Representatives of Cambridge or an Independent Adviser firm and/or Advisor Representatives of CIRA. This arrangement between certain Advisor Representatives and our Firm is a potential conflict of interest with our Clients in that it may inhibit our independent judgment.

Loans to Advisor Representatives

Advisor Representatives may receive a loan from Cambridge at the time of their affiliation with the firm. This loan is typically used to assist with costs associated with moving from their prior firm to Cambridge. If the amount of the loan exceeds the cost of moving their accounts to us, the recipient may use the remaining funds for other purposes, such as normal operational costs. Some loans may be forgiven based on certain criteria such as maintaining certain asset levels and tenure with the firm.

The receipt of a loan presents a conflict of interest in that the Advisor Representative may have a financial incentive to maintain a relationship with us and recommend us to their clients. However, to the extent that the Advisor Representative recommends Cambridge to clients, it is because he/she believes that it is in the client's best interest to do so based on the quality and pricing of the execution, benefits of an integrated platform for brokerage and advisory accounts, and other services provided by our Firm and its affiliates.

C. Code of Ethics, Participation in Client Transactions, and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics Summary and Offer

Regulations require all Investment Advisers to establish, maintain, and enforce a Code of Ethics. We have established a Code of Ethics that applies to all of our employees and Advisor Representatives. Our Firm is considered a fiduciary. As such, it is our responsibility to provide fair and full disclosure of all material facts and to act solely in the best interests of our Clients at all times. We must conduct business in an honest, ethical, and fair manner and avoid all circumstances that might negatively affect or appear to affect our duty of complete loyalty to all Clients. This fiduciary duty is the core underlying principle for our Code of Ethics, which also covers our Insider Trading and Personal Securities Transactions Policies and Procedures. We require all of our employees and Advisor Representatives (collectively referred to as "supervised persons" hereafter) to conduct business with the highest level of ethical standards and to comply with all federal and state securities laws at all times. Full disclosure of all material facts and potential conflicts of interest are provided to Clients prior to any services being conducted. Clients may review our Code of Ethics in its entirety by written request or at www.cir-info.com.

Personal Trading Policy

From time to time, our Firm or one or more supervised persons may purchase or own the same securities and investments that the Firm or our Advisor Representatives recommend to their Clients. Conflicts of interest may arise when a supervised person has personal accounts because they can potentially devote more time to monitoring his/her personal accounts as opposed to spending that time reviewing and monitoring Client accounts. In addition, there is a potential that Advisor Representatives may favor their personal accounts over Client accounts. When the recommendation to the Client involves individual stocks, stock options, bonds, and other general securities, there could be a conflict of interest with the Client because the Advisor Representative may engage in practices such as front running, scalping, and other activities that are potentially detrimental to Clients.

We have adopted policies and procedures to ensure that such conflicts are fully disclosed, and that neither the Firm, nor our supervised persons may trade ahead of or otherwise against the interest of Clients. It is our policy that the interests of Client accounts are placed ahead of the interests of the Firm's accounts and personal accounts of our supervised persons.

None of our supervised persons may effect for themselves or their immediate family (i.e., spouse, minor children, and adults living in the same household), or for trusts in which they may serve as trustee or have a beneficial interest, any transactions in a security which is published on the Firm's Restricted Trading List on behalf of any Clients without prior approval from our Chief Compliance Officer or his/her designee.

The foregoing policies and procedures are not applicable to (1) transactions in any account that neither the Firm nor its advisory affiliates have any direct or indirect influence or control, and (2) transactions in securities that are direct obligations of the U.S. government, bankers' acceptances, bank certificates of deposit, commercial paper, and high quality short-term debt instruments, including repurchase agreements or shares issued by registered open-end investment companies.

We recognize that some securities being considered for purchase or sale on behalf of Clients trade in large markets without any clearly noticeable impact on the markets of such securities. Under certain limited circumstances, exceptions may be made to our Code of Ethics.

We have also established policies and procedures to ensure that our supervised persons comply with applicable provisions of The Insider Trading and Securities Fraud Enforcement Act of 1988 ("ITSFEA"). To avoid conflicts of interest with Clients and to ensure compliance with ITSFEA, our Firm, among other things, does the following:

- Provides ongoing continuing education regarding avoiding conflicts of interest and complying with ITSFEA
- Requires supervised persons to report quarterly securities trading in personal accounts (except mutual funds and government securities), which are monitored by the Compliance Department
- Prohibits supervised persons from executing securities transactions for Clients or on their personal accounts based on information that is not available to the public upon reasonable inquiry
- Informs Clients that they are not required to purchase securities through our Firm or our Advisor Representatives, although if they choose to purchase securities through their CIRA Advisor Representative, the transaction must be affected through Cambridge or a Cambridge approved trading platform.

Agency Cross Transactions

An agency cross transaction is defined as a transaction in which an Investment Adviser acts as the broker for both his/her advisory Client and for the other party to the transaction. Agency cross transactions typically may arise where an adviser is dually registered as a broker-dealer or has an affiliated broker-dealer. Agency cross transactions are permitted for Investment Advisers only if certain conditions are met under Section 206(3) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 or SEC Rule 206(3)-2.

The interests of our Clients must always be placed first. Our trading policies and procedures prohibit unfair trading practices and seek to avoid conflicts of interests, where possible, or to disclose conflicts when they arise. We attempt to resolve conflicts in our Client's favor when reasonably possible.

Our Firm may engage in an agency cross transaction only when it is in the best interests of both Clients and neither Client is disfavored. Such cross transactions are only completed when it can be determined that doing so would achieve "best execution" and benefit the Clients involved by saving commissions, market impact costs, and other transaction charges. Agency cross transactions involving an advisory Client are transacted without any compensation, outside of the normal advisory fee, unless specifically approved by our Chief Compliance Officer in compliance with the above criteria and in accordance with regulatory requirements.

If compensation is approved for an agency cross transaction involving advisory Clients, we provide a written disclosure to the clients outlining the conflicting division of loyalties to both parties to the transaction. We also receive written, executed consent from the Client authorizing us to effect an agency cross transaction in Client accounts.

In addition, at or before completion of the transaction, we send each Client information which includes the date of the transaction, a statement of the nature of the transaction, an offer to furnish the time the transaction took place, and the total of all compensation received. Cambridge, through its clearing firm, provides each Client who was a party to an agency cross transaction for compensation, an annual written disclosure statement identifying the total number of agency cross transactions since the last statement and the total compensation received.

Agency cross transactions can only be processed through Cambridge accounts, and such transactions are not available through Institutional RIA Account platforms such as Charles Schwab & Company, Inc. and TD Ameritrade.

Principal Transactions

Principal transactions are transactions where an adviser, acting as principal for its own account or the account of an affiliate, buys a security from or sells a security to an advisory Client as opposed to carrying out trades through another broker-dealer. We may execute Client orders for certain types of securities on a principal basis in advisory accounts managed by our Firm.

Our policy is that no additional compensation, outside of the normal advisory fee, is charged to an advisory Client account due to the implementation of the principal transaction. We have adopted policies and procedures to ensure that principal transactions comply with the Advisers Act, which requires prior notice of and consent to a principal transaction, on a transaction-by-transaction basis. Disclosure generally comes directly from the broker/dealer or custodian. We may use our affiliated broker/dealer, Cambridge, to facilitate a principal transaction.

D. Review of Accounts

Your Advisor Representative provides investment advice and conducts ongoing reviews of your account(s). He/she also selects and/or recommends strategies and managers within CAAP®. Therefore, you should contact your Advisor Representative for your most current account information and status.

We do not impose a specific review schedule that all Advisor Representatives must follow. Generally, the calendar is the main triggering factor for your reviews. However, more frequent reviews may be provided for your account depending on, among other issues, changes to your financial or personal situation, or changes in market conditions. In addition, we generally send an annual letter confirming your personal information.

Your Advisor Representative reviews your account(s) to analyze if they are being managed in accordance with your chosen investment objective, are properly balanced, are managed according to a specific asset allocation model, and to verify the accuracy of account holdings and fee deductions.

Although not every Advisor Representative provides an annual financial review to every Client, CIRA encourages you to request a review to discuss with your Advisor Representative such things as account performance; changes in investment objectives, goals, and financial situation; tax planning; estate planning; retirement planning; and any other questions you may have concerning your investment portfolio.

For CAAP® and UMA accounts, we review your account(s) for rebalancing in the event that the Strategists change the allocation targets. At your request or your Advisor Representative's request, we perform tax harvesting. Proceeds of tax-related transactions may be held in cash until appropriate wash sale periods have expired. Once the wash sale period has expired, the related proceeds are invested according to the current targeted allocation for the portfolio. In addition, we may delay placing rebalancing transactions for non-retirement accounts by a number of days, in an attempt to limit short-term tax treatment for any position being sold. Under certain conditions, we also accommodate requests for all or a portion of an account to remain allocated to cash for a short period of time.

Client Reports and Statements

You may receive confirmations of purchases and sales in your accounts and will receive quarterly and/or monthly statements containing account information such as account value, transactions, and other relevant account information. Confirmations and statements are prepared and delivered by the account custodian.

We urge you to review the contents of these custodial statements and compare them against the reports provided directly from CIRA or Advisor Representatives.

Clients may also receive periodic reports reflecting the performance of their investment portfolio over a specified period. CIRA offers this optional performance reporting solutions to its CIRA Advisor Representatives who utilize the CAAP® program.

With respect to CAAP® accounts, some clearing firms may have the ability to suppress receipt of individual trade confirmations. Clients who have previously approved suppression of receipt of individual trade confirmations by signing the Confirmation Suppress Request, included in the CAAP® Agreement and Application, may receive this capability in the future if offered by additional clearing firms. Currently, Pershing offers this trade suppression and all trade confirmation information will be provided by Pershing on the Client Brokerage Statement.

E. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Other Compensation

CIRA Advisor Representatives, in their separate capacities as Registered Representatives of Cambridge, may receive commissions from the execution of securities transactions. Although not shared with CIRA Advisor Representatives, our affiliated broker-dealer, Cambridge, receives a portion of the ticket charges for non-wrap accounts managed by CIRA and held at FCCS or Pershing. In addition, Advisor Representatives may receive 12b-1 fees from certain mutual fund companies as outlined in the fund's prospectus. 12b-1 fees come from fund assets, therefore, indirectly from Client assets. The receipt of such commissions, ticket charges, and 12b-1 fees could represent an incentive for CIRA and the Advisor Representatives to recommend funds with 12b-1 fees over funds that have no fees or lower fees. As a result, there is a potential conflict of interest. When managing ERISA and qualified accounts, 12b-1 fees and trail earned are credited to the Client's account at the clearing firm whenever possible. When 12b-1 fees and trails are received by the Advisor Representative in his/her capacity as Registered Representative of Cambridge, the investment advisory fee is lowered, or offset by that amount.

Advisor Representatives that are licensed insurance agents, including those approved to conduct business under CIRA's affiliated insurance company TBS Agency, Inc., receive commissions and other incentive awards for the recommendation and/or sale of annuities and other insurance products. The receipt of this compensation may affect the judgment of Advisor Representatives when recommending insurance products to their Clients.

While Advisor Representatives endeavor at all times to put your interests ahead of their own, you should be aware that the receipt of commissions and additional compensation itself creates a conflict of interest, and may affect the judgment of Advisor Representatives when making recommendations.

In addition to the economic benefits detailed above, including assistance and services, the Firm enters into specific arrangements with product sponsors and other third parties. Advisor Representatives may offer a wide variety of products and programs including mutual funds, annuities, life insurance, and investment wrap programs (collectively referred to as "Approved Product Companies"). Arrangements with some Approved Product Companies are referred to as revenue sharing arrangements. Although we endeavor at all times to put the interest of our Clients ahead of our own or those of our officers, directors, or representatives ("affiliated persons"), these arrangements could affect our judgment when recommending investment products, thus presenting a conflict of interest. Please review our Revenue Sharing Disclosure located at www.cir-info.com for further information about any of our revenue sharing arrangements. It is also available upon written request.

Compensation Paid for Client Referrals

Solicitors – Referring Parties

We may enter into arrangements with individuals ("Solicitors") who refer Clients that may be candidates for investment advisory services to us. In return, we compensate the Solicitor for the referral. Compensation to the Solicitor is dependent on the Client entering into an advisory Agreement with CIRA. Compensation to the Solicitor is an agreed upon percentage of our investment advisory fee or a flat fee depending on the type of advisory services. Generally, Advisor Representatives not affiliated with CIRA are working under this scenario.

Our referral program is in compliance with federal or state regulations (as applicable). We pay all solicitation/referral fees pursuant to a written Agreement retained by both CIRA and the Solicitor. We require Solicitors to provide the Client with a copy of the WealthPort Wrap Brochure and a Solicitor Disclosure Document, at the time of solicitation. CIRA obtains acknowledgement from the Client of receiving the disclosures prior to or at the time of entering into an investment advisory contract with our Firm. Solicitors are not permitted to offer Clients any investment advice on behalf of CIRA. The advisory fee charged to Clients may increase as a result of compensation being shared with the Solicitor.

Referral Arrangements with Representatives of Unaffiliated Broker-dealers

Certain Advisor Representatives have entered into arrangements with Registered Representatives of outside broker-dealer firms whereby the Registered Representatives of the outside broker-dealer firm will refer Clients to Cambridge and the Advisor Representative in his or her separate capacity as a Cambridge Registered Representative.

Marketing Arrangements with Financial Institutions

Cambridge has established and will continue to establish marketing arrangements with banks, credit unions and other financial institutions. In certain circumstances, investment advisory services of CIRA may also be marketed through these banks, credit unions and other financial institutions, provided that such marketing is done in compliance with applicable SEC and state regulations. Further, CIRA may have Advisor Representatives conducting business from and/or affiliated with a bank or other financial institution. As a result of these marketing agreements, the financial institution may receive compensation representing payment for the use of the facilities and equipment of the financial institution(s), in the form of program support or rent payment and/or a portion of advisory fees or securities commissions paid to the representatives for sales to customer/members of the financial institution.

The joint guidelines of regulators of the depository institution call for, at a minimum, both written and verbal disclosure at or prior to the time securities products are purchased or sold that such securities products:

- Are not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) or National Credit Union Share Insurance Fund, the National Credit Union Administration, or any other federal or state deposit guarantee fund or other government agency;
- Not endorsed or guaranteed by the bank or credit union or their affiliates;
- Are not deposits or obligations of the depository institutions and are not guaranteed by the depository institutions;
- Investments and securities are subject to investment risks, including possible loss of principal invested.

F. Financial Information

This item is not applicable to our Disclosure Brochure. CIRA does not allow, require, or solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per Client, six months or more in advance. Therefore, we are not required to include a balance sheet for our most recent fiscal year. Neither CIRA nor our affiliated companies are subject to a financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair our ability to meet contractual commitments to Clients. Finally, we have not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time.

Item 10 – Requirement for State Registered Advisers

CIRA is a federally registered Investment Adviser; therefore, this section does not apply.
